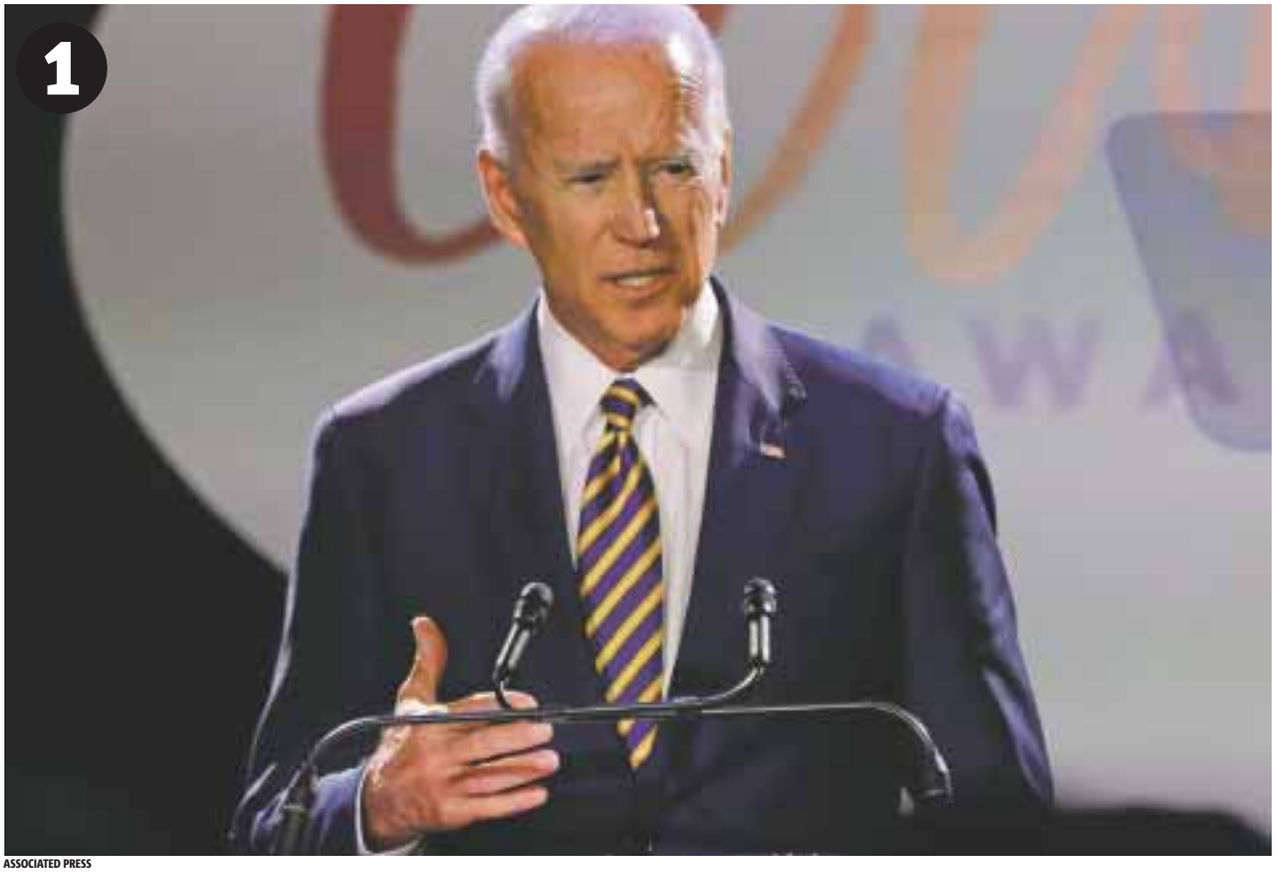
Biden: I'll be more mindful of 'respecting personal space'

The former vice president put out a video Wednesday.



ASSOCIATED PRESS

Former Vice President Joe Biden acknowledged Wednesday that his tendency toward physical displays of affection and encouragement have made some women uncomfortable, and he promised to be "much more mindful" of "respecting personal space."

In a cellphone video, Biden also teased an announcement of his political plans, promising to "be talking to you about a whole lot of issues," before conceding that his behavior had offended some.

"Social norms have begun to change. They've shifted," the 76-year-old Biden said, looking into the camera in a suit and open-collared shirt. "And the boundaries of protecting personal space have been reset. And I get it. I get it. I hear what they are saying. I understand."

The video posted on Twitter was Biden's first direct comment on what has tripped up his preparations to enter the 2020 Democratic presidential campaign. He did not directly apologize but seemed to be seeking to ease some people's discomfort.

On Friday, former Nevada politician Lucy Flores wrote in New York Magazine that Biden approached her from behind, touched her shoulders and kissed the back of her head in 2014.

Since then, another woman has said Biden grabbed her face when he was thanking congressional staff at a 2009 event.

Biden, a former longtime U.S. senator from Delaware, first said in a statement that he did not recall the episode that Flores initially described in the magazine piece and then in subsequent weekend interviews.

In the video Wednesday, Biden insisted that what he described as the compassion from where the affection comes will not change and again nodded to the steps he's taking toward running.

"But I'll always believe governing — life, for that matter — is about connecting, connecting with people," he said. "That won't change."

Biden also said that he would be more careful about his actions in the future.

"And I'll be much more mindful. That's my responsibility, and I'll meet it," Biden said.

And in so doing, Biden was tacitly acknowledging a nagging concern for some voters: that he cannot adapt.

"The idea that I can't adjust to the fact that personal space is important, more important than it's ever been, is just not thinkable," he said in closing. "I will. I will."

2 Bike-riding slasher wanted in LA for several attacks

Law enforcement officials in Los Angeles have appealed to the public for help in capturing a man they say has slashed the faces of at least four people, seemingly at random, as he rides through the city on a bicycle. The Los Angeles Police Department released photo and video images of the suspect, described as a Latino man between 18 and 30 with a shaved head, wearing a dark brown shirt with a white design and riding a black-and-green mountain bike. Investigators said it was not clear what prompted the attacks across South Los Angeles and surrounding communities or even what he was using for a weapon. The latest two attacks took place on Monday, the LAPD said in a statement, when officers responding to a radio call around 8:40 p.m. found a man suffering from a severe wound to the left side of his face. 3 Britney Spears takes 'me time' after dad's 2nd surgery

Pop star Britney Spears said on Wednesday she was taking a little "me time" after a report she checked herself into a mental health facility to help cope with her father's illness. Spears, 37, announced in January that she was pulling out of all her concerts and work commitments to be with her family after her father Jamie came close to death in November after suffering a ruptured colon. On Wednesday, the "Stronger" singer posted a message on her Instagram account saying, "We all need to take time for a little 'me time.'" She also posted a quote reading "Fall in love with taking care of yourself, mind, body, spirit." Celebrity website TMZ said Spears voluntarily checked herself into a residential mental health facility about a week ago. A source close to the singer said Jamie Spears was not doing well after a second surgery three weeks ago. REUTERS

4 American kidnapped on Ugandan safari

An American woman and her driver have been kidnapped at Uganda's most popular wildlife park by gunmen demanding a ransom of $500,000, police said on Wednesday. Kimberley Sue Endecott, 35, and Ugandan driver Jean Paul were on a game drive in Queen Elizabeth National Park when four gunmen ambushed their vehicle on Tuesday evening, a police statement said. Various illegal groups from Somali Islamists to Congolese-based rebels sometimes operate in Uganda, but the kidnappers' identity was not known. An elderly couple also at the scene were not taken and raised the alarm. California-based Endecott and the couple, whose relationship was unclear, entered Uganda on March 29 and flew the next day to the park in the country's southwest, police said. The U.S. embassy in Kampala had no extra information to offer. REUTERS

Huffman, Loughlin warned about scam talk with their kids

Huffman is accused of making a $15,000 contribution in exchange for correcting her daughter's SAT exam.

A U.S. judge on Wednesday warned parents charged in the largest college admissions scandal in U.S. history, including actresses Felicity Huffman and Lori Loughlin, to avoid discussing the case with their children, who are potential witnesses.

Prosecutors had wanted U.S. Magistrate Judge M. Page Kelley in Boston to go further and prohibit the 12 wealthy parents who appeared before her from talking about the case with their children without a lawyer present.

While Kelley warned the parents that discussing the case with their children could expose them to potential obstruction of justice charges, she said she did not think the prosecution's proposed conditions on parental communications could work.

"I just don't think that's realistic," Kelley said.

"Desperate Housewives" star Huffman and "Full House" actor Loughlin said little during the hearing other than to say that they understood the charges prosecutors brought against them. They are among 50 people, including several college athletics coaches, charged with participating in fraud and bribery schemes.

Prosecutors said those schemes involved cheating on college entrance exams and paying $25 million in bribes to help their children gain admission at well-known universities including Yale University and the University of Southern California (USC).

Some of the 33 parents charged in the scheme have begun plea negotiations with prosecutors. On Wednesday, packaged-food entrepreneur Peter Sartorio became the first to reveal he plans to plead guilty. Two others said they were also in plea talks.

Prosecutors say the scheme was overseen by California college-admissions consultant William "Rick" Singer, who has admitted to facilitating the cheating scam and bribing coaches to present the parents' children as fake athletic recruits.

Loughlin walked into the courthouse past a group fans yelling, "Lori, we love you," and left smiling. Huffman exited the court holding her brother's hand.

Prosecutors allege that Loughlin and her husband, Los Angeles fashion designer Mossimo Giannulli, agreed to pay $500,000 to have their two daughters named as recruits to USC's crew team, even though they did not row competitively.

Huffman, who is married to the actor William H. Macy, is accused of making a $15,000 contribution to Singer's foundation in exchange for having an associate of Singer's in 2017 secretly correct her daughter's answers on an SAT college entrance exam at a test center prosecutors say Singer "controlled."

Huffman later made arrangements to engage in the scheme again on her younger daughter's behalf before deciding not to, prosecutors said.

Sartorio, who is expected to plead guilty later this month, similarly paid $15,000 to have his daughter's ACT exam corrected by Singer's associate, prosecutors said. REUTERS

Why Aren't Doctors Telling Knee Arthritis Sufferers About These Two Often Successful Treatments?

Two Advanced Medical Treatments Every Knee Arthritis Sufferer Needs To Know - Before Or After Knee Replacement Surgery

NYC -If you suffer with knee arthritis pan, you have probably already tried many treatments... especially countless pain medications. With minimal or no results

Are there any better options?

Thankfully, advancements in science and technology come extremely fast. And now there are two very good options for knee arthritis a lot of knee arthritis sufferers have never heard of.

Before we get into the two treatments, please understand this...

NYC Pain MD is a REAL medical clinic that has treated thousands of knee arthritis sufferers. Patients travel from all over the tai-state to be treated at one of their clinics because they want the best medical treatments available.

What you are about to discover are two REAL medical treatments. Not miracle cures you see on infomercials or on the internet.

Know this fact: There is no cure for arthritis. But there are these two treatments that have already helped thousands of knee arthritis sufferers - possibly just like you.

#1 Viscosupplementation

Here's what you need to know about viscosupplementation - the good and the bad....

When you have arthritis, you suffer a decrease in the lubrication fluids in your knee. In other words, your knee joints basically "dries up."

The lubricating fluid that decreases is called "synovial fluid."

Pharmaceutical companies (with the help of scientists) can now make synovial fluid-like compounds that... during viscosupplementaiton treatments... doctors precisely inject directly into the knee joint.

This helps replace the lubricating fluid to the knee joint - allowing it to move more freely and smoothly and often decreasing or even eliminating the pain.

What Results Can Be Expected?

Like all medical treatments, the results vary and can not be predicted. But many knee arthritis sufferers get dramatic results. It is not uncommon for patients to either postpone knee replacement surgery for years... or even permanently cancel it.

But There Is A BIG Problem

The key is the treatment must be EXTREMELY PRECISE. If the procedure is slightly off, the formula will not get into the knee joint and the treatment will not work.

That's why the experts at NYC Pain MD use advanced digital imaging so they visually guide the injection accurately into the knee joint during the treatment.

Research shows that performing joint injections without imaging miss the joint as much as 30% of the time.

If you have had prior viscosupplementation without this special digital imaging without good results - this may be the exact reason why.

That's why NYC Pain MD even takes it one step further. They do not just use one form of advanced imaging during treatment - they use two in their "double confirmation" process. This is to ensure patients get the best possible results.

Another Important Factor

Viscosupplementation "medicines" also come in several different formulas.

Just like all medications, some people respond better to one than another. While many doctors only use one formula, the experts at NYC Pain MD use several and great effort is taken to figure out what the best one is for you.

What Should You Do If Viscosupplementation Fails?

#2 Radiofrequency Neurotomy

This treatment is called, "Radiofrequncy Neurotomy." RF for short

RF is a procedure that is based on the theory that blocking the nerve supply to the painful area may alleviate pain and restore function.

Several branches of nerves that surround the knee are known as "Genicular nerves."

Radiofrequncy waves are delivered to the Genicular nerves under advanced imaging to "block" the nerves.

Two procedures are performed. First, a test, diagnostic "G Block" procedure is done to determine if the procedure is going to decrease pain and improve function.

If this first "test" procedure is successful, Genicular Neurotomy (GRF) is performed for long term relief.

Is It Safe?

Research has shown this procedure to be safe and effective.

One study published November 4, 2010 in the journal Pain found that RF treated subjects on average "achieved at least 50% knee pain relief at 1, 4 and 12 weeks, respectively. No patient reported a post-procedure adverse event during the follow-up period. RF neurotomy of Genicular nerves leads to significant pain reduction and functional improvement in a subset of elderly chronic knee OA pain, and thus may be an effective treatment in such cases."

Who Should Try This Treatment?

RF should be considered after other treatments, such as anti-inflammatory pain medication, physical rehab or viscosupplementation do not offer good enough results.

RF may be utilized before resorting to total knee replacement. RF allows many patients to avoid knee replacement surgery.

But - RF has also been found effective AFTER knee replacement surgery when the patient still feels pain.

The pain after a failed knee replacement surgery can be debilitating and this procedure may be the only thing that helps and give you after surgery relief.

Advanced Imaging Allows Doctors To Pin-Point Treatments And Relieve Knee Arthritis Pain

Science rescues knee arthritis sufferers? Research shows joint injections done without advanced imaging misses the joint about 30% of the time. Now doctors can put lubricating fluid directly into the arthritis joint that may alleviate pain and restore function to many.

What To Do Next If You Are In Pain

NYC Pain MD offers a limited number of complimentary knee arthritis t screenings every month. These screenings are a way for knee arthritis sufferers to get their questions answered and see if they are a candidate for one of the cutting-edge treatments offered at NYC Pain MD. If you would like to schedule a screening, just call 877-380-8537.

The screenings fill up fast every month. This screening is no cost and there absolutely no obligation.

More good news: for qualified candidates, insurances and Medicare often cover these treatments.

House Judiciary panel approves subpoenas for Mueller report

The vote further escalates the Democrats' battle with the Justice Department.

The House Judiciary Committee approved subpoenas Wednesday for special counsel Robert Mueller's full Russia report as Democrats pressure the Justice Department to release the document without redactions.

The committee voted 24-17 to give Judiciary Chairman Jerrold Nadler, D-N.Y., permission to issue subpoenas to the Justice Department for the final report, its exhibits and any underlying evidence or materials prepared for Mueller's investigation. Nadler has not yet said if he'll send the subpoenas.

House Democrats had given Attorney General William Barr until Tuesday to provide the full report to Congress. The Justice Department ignored that deadline, with Barr telling committee chairmen in a letter last week that a redacted version of the almost 400-page report would be released by mid-April, "if not sooner."

The vote further escalates the Democrats' battle with the Justice Department over how much of the report they will be able to see, a fight that could eventually end up in court if the two sides can't settle their differences through negotiation. Democrats have said they will not accept redactions and want to see the evidence unfiltered by Barr.

In the letter last week, Barr said he is scrubbing the report to avoid disclosing any grand jury information or classified material, in addition to portions of the report that pertain to ongoing investigations or that "would unduly infringe on the personal privacy and reputational interests of peripheral third parties."

"This committee requires the full report and the underlying materials because it is our job."
Rep. Jerrold Nadler

Democrats say they want access to all of that information, even if some of it can't be disclosed to the public. Nadler said he will give Barr time to change his mind on redactions, but if they cannot reach an agreement they will issue the subpoenas "in very short order." He also said he is prepared to go to court to get the grand jury information.

"This committee requires the full report and the underlying materials because it is our job, not the attorney general's, to determine whether or not President Trump has abused his office," Nadler said.

The Judiciary panel also voted Wednesday to authorize subpoenas related to five of President Donald Trump's former top advisers, including strategist Steve Bannon, communications director Hope Hicks, chief of staff Reince Priebus, White House counsel Donald McGahn and counsel Ann Donaldson. Donaldson served as McGahn's chief of staff before both left the administration.

The five were key witnesses in Mueller's probe of possible obstruction of justice and were sent document requests by the Judiciary panel last month, along with dozens of other people connected to Trump. Nadler said he is concerned about reports that documents relevant to Mueller's investigation "were sent outside the White House," meaning the committee should have access to them because they may not be covered by executive privilege.

The top Republican on the Judiciary panel, Georgia Rep. Doug Collins, said at the vote that the five subpoenas are misguided because two of the individuals have already provided 3,000 documents to the committee and that the other three have indicated a willingness to cooperate.

Collins said the authorization for subpoenas is "reckless" and that Democrats shouldn't be asking for documents that the Justice Department can't legally disclose to the public. ASSOCIATED PRESS

NYC transit system gets new chief ahead of overhaul

There's a new boss at the agency overseeing New York City's subways, buses and commuter trains.

The New York state Senate confirmed Patrick Foye as the new chairman and CEO of the Metropolitan Transportation Authority on Monday before approving a new state budget.

Foye, a former MTA president, was the executive director of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey during 2013's George Washington Bridge lane-closing scandal. Foye ordered the lanes reopened after they were closed in a plot to create gridlock and punish a New Jersey mayor who didn't endorse former New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie.

Foye takes over the MTA after Democratic Gov. Andrew Cuomo and the Democrat-controlled Legislature authorized new tolls in central Manhattan to raise funds for the subways. Foye replaces acting chairman Fernando Ferrer, who has been in charge of the MTA since Joseph Lhota's resignation in November.

Cuomo also wants the MTA overhauled to improve operations and oversight. ASSOCIATED PRESS

Old Hollywood is still alive in NYC

The Metrograph will be showcasing two intriguing films in one night including 1959's "Pillow Talk."

MOLLY GIVEN
Molly.Given@metro.us

New York City is full of little gems and hidden treasures, and the quaint yet full of character Metrograph is truly one of them.

The Metrograph embodies everything "Old Hollywood" is all about and tries to bring that magical era to life in present day. This Thursday night, the Metrograph will be showing the 1959 film "Pillow Talk" along with the 2014 Oscar-winning animated short "Feast."

Patrick Osborne, the director of "Feast" and John Epperson will be hosting the evening and will also host a Q&A to give more insight about both films. Epperson chatted with Metro to give us the scoop on what to expect for the exciting evening.

This is the 60th anniversary of "Pillow Talk"—what makes this film so timeless?
Well, times have changed certainly, and part of my introduction will be about nowadays, some of the things that happened in the movie would no longer be considered appropriate with sex and gender politics of today. But it is still timely because men and women are still attracted to one another, of course, one the most interesting things about the movie is that Rock Hudson was playing a heterosexual as he did in the 50s and beyond—but privately he was not. In fact, he plays a duplicitous character in the movie, so you can look at it as though he's playing himself. He's playing two different sides of himself.

Why do you think the appeal of "Old Hollywood" is still so magical for people?
I think part of it was that stars were allowed to have personality. Stars today don't have or don't seem to be allowed. Why that is? I think the internet has something to do with it.

What other old films do you think people should watch?
I recommend to everyone that they should see "Imitation of Life" that was made in 1959 with Lana Turner. Another one of my favorite movies that's kind of the sister movie to that one is the Alfred Hitchcock movie "Marnie" that was an opera, you might know about that.

Doris Day

Rock Hudson

I also recommend to New Yorkers that they see a movie from 1971 called "Klute" with Jane Fonda because you can see a kind of gritty glamour that the city used to have, it doesn't really have it anymore. I also recommend a movie that people pooh-pooh called "The Fury" from 1978 by Brian De Palma with Amy Irving, just because Brian DePalma's having so much fun making a movie that you can feel it. I'm sure you've seen the movie "Carrie." But the movie "The Fury" that he made a couple of years later is like "Carrie" with a budget.

Patrick Osborne's short film "Feast" is playing prior to "Pillow Talk." Can you give us any insight on what that movie is about?
Well, it's a very cute film I enjoyed it a lot. In a way it is kind of the same thing as what "Pillow Talk" is about, male and female relationships and how people find one another. It's about a little dog and it has the Disney stamp on it: The main character of the film is a little dog who can show so many different emotions. But one of my questions to Patrick Osborne is why when we go to the movies do we not see cartoons like that before the feature film starts? I went to go see the Disney "Mary Poppins" reboot and I saw a lot of commercials for Coca-Cola and cellphones but they didn't show a cartoon, and that would have been perfect for the audience. When I was growing up when you went to the movies you saw the cartoon before the movie. Well, as it turns out, that's kind of what we're going to do for Thursday night.

Could you see yourself hosting at the Metrograph again?
Yeah, absolutely, I wouldn't mind hosting one of those movies I mentioned before.

Will there be a Q&A after the film?
Actually, I'm going to talk with Patrick Osborne after the screening of "Feast," his animated film, and that's going to be first and then I'm going to introduce "Pillow Talk" and explain to the audience who some of the people are. Because some people may not know about Rock Hudson's history or his dark days- or a lot of people don't know that Ross Hunter was a gay man who produced "Pillow Talk." There are a lot of gay people who are involved with "Pillow Talk," not just Rock Hudson. Even the man who directed it was blacklisted during the 1950s Communist witch-hunt, and this movie was his comeback. For about five years he didn't direct a movie because he was blacklisted by McCarthy and Roy Cohn, and you know who Roy Cohn is and how Roy Cohn fits into today.

5 BEST ROBOTIC ANIMAL COMPANIONS

TOMBOT

This a little robot in a shape of a dog designed to be effective substitute for live animal companions. As such, it provides all the benefits of a live animal without the burden of care, the risk of bites, allergic reactions or infections. Tombot features a software control system that allows the robot to interact with users in a way a real dog would. It also has voice recognition.

QOOBO

People love pets, but unfortunately not everyone can have one, whether for health reasons, lack of time or space in their homes. That is why Qoobo, an interactive cushion with a tail that moves in response to the user's stroking and rubbing, was developed. This little cyborg in the shape of half the torso and tail of a cat is designed to provide a sense of comfort to owners.

LOVOT

Although this little one doesn't look like any pet you know, it can also keep you company and let you hug it. This robot of Japanese origin is able to recognize the face of someone who loves them. Lovot is also programmed to make eye contact with its owners, respond to gestures, recognize movements and follow, keeping pace with them as they walk.

PARO

Paro is an advanced interactive robot developed by AIST, a leading Japanese industrial automation pioneer. It allows the documented benefits of animal therapy to be administered to patients in environments such as hospitals and extended care facilities where live animals present treatment or logistical difficulties. By interacting with people, Paro responds as if it is alive by moving its head, legs and making sounds.

CAT & DOG

Joy For All recently created its line of companion robots shaped as pets, including one cat and one dog. These robotic animals respond to petting, hugging and motion much like the real ones you know and love, but don't require any special care or feeding.

Stunning self-destructing asteroid

> "Gault is the best 'smoking gun' example of a fast rotator right at the two-hour limit [it spins once every 2 hours]."
> Jan Kleyna, member of the Gault observing team, stated.

1988 is the year the asteroid Gault was discovered.

800k

km is the length of the longest tail of this asteroid.

It is spinning too fast

NASA's Hubble Space Telescope managed to capture an asteroid, which spins so fast that it has started to self-destruct. The images by the telescope show two narrow, comet-like tails of dusty debris streaming from the Gault. Each tail represents an episode in which the space body gently shed its material—key evidence that it is tearing apart. The asteroid's narrow streamers suggest that the dust was released in short bursts, lasting from a few hours to a few days. MWN

A SPRING POEM

It's a mild April evening.
Inside the restaurant glittering TV stars are celebrating their show's final season.
A police officer stands outside, scanning the street scene.

Couples stroll by,
solitary shufflers,
groups of boisterous coworkers,
old, young.

Workday is done,
no need to run.
Off to the Opera,
a cafe, a film.
Head home
crack a beer
Spring is finally here

Customize your own luxurious vacation at Serenity at Coconut Bay

PAT KING
patrick.king@metro.us

There are many different reasons why people need to take vacations. The constant grind of the work week or simply getting worn down by day-to-day obligations can take its toll without some serious rest and relaxation. But sometimes, some of those things can follow you around even when you are on your trip away from home. Loud families with children running through the hallways of the resort you are staying at can seriously be an unwanted distraction — especially when you have scraped together all of your money to pay for this trip!

Luckily, Serenity at Coconut Bay on the exotic south coast of Saint Lucia will provide the adult's-only experience you are looking for, so you can unwind on your own terms in one of the 36 private-butler Plunge Pool Suites. Think of it as actually finding your own "Serenity."

That is exactly what you will find at the resort, as guests will be pampered by Serenity at Coconut Bay's very own all-inclusive and luxurious intuitive butler service. A full staff of butlers will be at your complete beck and call 24 hours a day to make sure your experience is nothing but exceptional. Whether you are looking for breakfast in bed, dinner under the moonlight, or simply cocktails on your private deck — the highly trained staff at Serenity at Coconut Bay will have you covered.

This discreet exclusive butler service is just the beginning, as guests will also have access to gourmet in-suite and restaurant dining, premium spirits, private pools and beach cabanas, in-suite spa treatments, all surrounded by the exotic beauty of Saint Lucia.

Couples will be treated to in-suite couples' massages or naps in their very own made-for-two hammocks. After you have truly unwound, your butlers will be able to plan either a dreamy beach picnic in a secluded spot along Serenity's mile-long beach, with views of the Maria Islands Nature Reserve, or a romantic date in a Serenity beach cabana. No matter how chill or how extravagant your ideal vacation is, the butlers at Serenity will make sure that your dreams are fulfilled exactly to your liking.

While other resorts have their own pools, how many resort pools have you been to that are actually award-winning? In 2018, USA Today named the pool at Serenity at Coconut Bay one of "2018's Best Pools in the Caribbean."

The 36 Plunge Pool Butler Suites at Serenity at Coconut Bay will make you feel like royalty. Handcrafted finishes — including Saint Lucia river rock, granite and mahogany — intertwine and seamlessly blend the spacious indoor and outdoor living areas into one. Lush tropical plants and coconut trees add to the island feel as guests will begin to forget where the indoor living spaces end, and outdoor lounging areas begin. Some of the amazing features include plunge pools, oversized soaking tubs, glass-enclosed rain showers in en-suite bathrooms, and custom-made mahogany king beds.

Your entire experience at Serenity will be completely customizable, with meals and drinks at the ready within a moment's notice. Dining on Saint Lucian and international specialties is key in Serenity's Greathouse Restaurant — as is lingering over a drink at the pool bar.

If you would like to explore the island, Serenity at Coconut Bay also offers guests exclusive private tours of all of the wonders of Saint Lucia, including playing in the mud baths at the world's only drive-in volcano, swimming under a waterfall, seeing the world-famous Piton mountains, and spectacular 360-degree island views at the world's second-highest lighthouse.

Gentle reminder: These 3 countries are NOT a part of Mexico

We're looking at you, Fox News.

Fodor's Travel

On Saturday, the Trump administration released a statement saying that it will be cutting financial assistance to Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador. Approximately $700 million will be slashed.

Additionally, the U.S. State Department said that it had "notified Congress it was cutting off aid from past years (fiscal years 2017 and 2018) to the three countries."

Sen. Bob Menendez — a top Democrat on the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations — urged both parties to reject the move. "U.S. foreign assistance is not charity; it advances our strategic interests and funds initiatives that protect American citizens," Menendez told NBC News.

All of this is worrisome enough, but a Fox News segment on Sunday got us worrying even more: There seem to be some people who are totally unaware that these countries are, in fact, countries. "Fox and Friends Weekend" displayed across its chyron, "TRUMP CUTS AID TO 3 MEXICAN COUNTRIES." (The network has since apologized, with co-host Ed Henry saying, "We just want to be clear, the funding is being cut off to the three Central American countries. We apologize for the error — it never should've happened.")

As travel experts, we'd be derelict in our duties if we didn't make this public service announcement: Guatemala, Honduras and El Salvador are definitely not part of Mexico, they are not "Mexican countries." They are their own sovereign countries. Not only that, but they're pretty damn great.

Guatemala

Guatemala — known as the country of the eternal spring — is extraordinary in so many ways. It's pleasant to visit any time of the year thanks to its temperate climate and, with colorful markets, exotic wildlife (from spider monkeys to toucans), colonial architecture, and quality white-water rafting, it offers a lot to the average tourist, which makes it irresistible. If you're looking for a place to kick off your Guatemalan travels, we're particularly fond of the country's capital, Guatemala City. Head to Mercado Central, a series of underground passages, where quality goods, like leather and wool, can be found at a better deal than the region's open-air markets. The city is also home to some incredible architecture, especially if you're interested in religious iconography — the baroque Iglesia de la Merced and the small, yet quaint Iglesia de San Francisco, which features unique carvings galore.

Beyond the capital are a number of other majestic destinations. Just outside Guatemala City is the colonial town of Antigua, a kaleidoscope of color framed by a dramatic volcano. Another three hours away is Lake Atitlan, a tranquil gem, also under the shadow of volcanoes. In the north of the country, surrounded by lush jungles, is the ancient Mayan citadel, Tikal, a UNESCO World Heritage site. Those who ruled from within this kingdom were some of the most powerful in all of the Mayan lands.

Honduras

Honduras is widely recognized as the "Athens of Central America," because of the number of rich, historical attractions the country holds; the city of Copán is home to some especially striking Mayan architecture. Honduras' northern coast is very lively, thanks in part to La Ceiba (a.k.a. the "Eco-Tourism Capital of Honduras"), the third-largest city in the country. Though it might be sleepy during the day (more time to relax in the region's parks), it comes to life at night as several notable hot spots, including clubs Hibou and La Casona, beckon visitors to dance the night away. Also on the coast is the Río Plátano Biosphere Reserve, an UNESCO World Heritage Site that is home to 1.3 million acres of preserved land where you can spot all sorts of plants and wildlife, including 377 species of birds. If you're looking for a few enjoyable island days, spend some time on Cayos Cochinos and Utila; both are known for their scuba-diving culture, especially the Cayos Cochinos, which boasts pristine coral reefs.

El Salvador

A 2018 Fodor's Go List destination, El Salvador has certainly come into its own as a tourist destination in the last couple of years. We recommend going between December and January, just after the rainy season, so you'll get to drink in all of those green landscapes. The country also offers some excellent surfing, which is best done between May and August (at destinations like Las Flores and Mizata). Notable tourist hot spots include the ancient Mayan UNESCO World Heritage site Joya de Cerén (deemed the "Pompeii of the Americas") and Lake Coatepeque, whose beautiful blue water is surrounded by gorgeous properties like the incredible Cardedeu resort. Also, you would be doing a disservice to your taste buds if you left El Salvador without indulging in some of the local cuisine, specifically pupusas (corn dough filled with meat, beans and cheese), which can be found at restaurants and at street trucks alike. Also, caffeine fanatics must swing a visit to one of the country's many coffee plantations — we're big fans of El Carmen Coffee Estate.

Guiding women in each stage of life with compassionate care.

Dr. Tamara Guichard is adaptive in finding the best ways to communicate her knowledge to the best of her ability. Her practice specializes in vulvar and vaginal disorders including warts, STD's, UTI's, Fibroids, and vaginal infections. She provides routine gynecological care and treatment including rejuvenation procedures, colposcopy, uterine polypectomy, and fertility evaluations.

Often we shy away from asking the uncomfortable questions that we all wonder about from time to time. Questions and curiosities that can keep our minds preoccupied and distracted, or even affect our health by avoiding these topics completely. I understand this common fear and worry that many of us share which is why my approach in patient care is always an authentic and individualized experience, treating the patient first as a translator of sorts, helping me investigate the actual symptoms of their concerns.

Without this bond, we are unable to work together to provide long lasting results that treat each issue with patience and understanding. Whether our patients are coming in for a consultation, testing, evaluations, or treatment plans we seek to create an environment that is purely resourceful and educational for our patients to build a network of long and strong healthy lives. We provide a variety of expert knowledge in rejuvenation procedures and preventative solutions for concerns like endometriosis and fibroid that can be very painful and lead to other medical issues if not treated or properly monitored right away. If you suspect any concern or curious about any form of abnormality where it be hormonal, physical, or related to a specific stage in your life we encourage you to reach out and speak to one us directly as well as set up an appointment for thorough evaluation.

My biggest message to the majority of my patients when they come in, is to be in tune with their bodies allowing us both to assess what areas in both personal life and your external life such as social or work can supplement each other and contribute to the overall state of your health.

It's important to stay up to date and review all kinds of testing and treatment plans, not just submit to an instant gratification form of treatment. Many fear the unknown and replace fear with assumptions, self diagnosing and self medicating. If we reduce the fear and simplify the process, we become closer to our bodies and realize that our bodies are not as foreign as we make it out to be.

We truly believe that caring starts with advanced resources and technologies that can give us the opportunity to pin point the issue and replenish a person's health and overall experience as a woman. Especially when it comes to a woman's sexual experience, we all deserve a healthy and safe life when it comes to our intimate expressions.

This is also why we service MonaLisa Touch which is a low energy electric therapy allowing women to have both functional and cosmetic alterations to their vagina. Especially if you feel dryness or are post menopausal, do not hesitate to come in and ask us about our minimally invasive procedures. We welcome you with open arms!

Eyes on Giants QB choice as draft nears

The NFL Draft is just three weeks away. What will the Giants do?

JOE PANTORNO

For a general manager who claims to have a plan, the outlook surrounding Dave Gettleman's decisions for the New York Giants' future is as hazy as ever.

The 2019 NFL Draft is three weeks away and the Giants look to be at a quadruple fork in the road after a shockingly active offseason that has featured the departures of Odell Beckham Jr. and Landon Collins.

Gettleman's moves have done little (at least, at the moment) to find the future franchise quarterback to be the successor of the 38-year-old Eli Manning.

He has a litany of options to choose from, but the Giants' lack of a known agenda has gone against everything Gettleman along with owners John Mara and Steve Tisch have said.

Of course, they won't want to tip their hand in the slightest, which could be why what is actually known about New York's search for a quarterback could be nothing more than misinformation released to throw rival clubs off the scent.

Looking at the draft later this month, the Giants hold the No. 6 and the No. 17 pick in the first round, two vital selections to help replenish the talent pool of a rebuilding team.

The top-six pick would land the Giants a quarterback like Ohio State's Dwayne Haskins, who has made it known that he wants to play for his childhood team. However, there has been speculation that the Giants could snag a top-tier pass-rushing talent with the pick, whether it be Mississippi State's Montez Sweat or Michigan's Rashan Gary.

They then would have to hope that a quarterback like Missouri's Drew Lock or Duke's Daniel Jones would still be available, though they are not as highly-touted as Haskins.

Just take a look at their college careers:

DWAYNE HASKINS
Games: 22
Completion %: 70
Passing Yards: 5,396
Passing Touchdowns: 54
Interceptions: 9
Rushing Yards: 194
Rushing Touchdowns: 4

DREW LOCK
Games: 50
Completion %: 56.9
Passing Yards: 12,193
Passing Touchdowns: 99
Interceptions: 39
Rushing Yards: 437
Rushing Touchdowns: 9

DANIEL JONES
Games: 36
Completion %: 59.9
Passing Yards: 8,201
Passing Touchdowns: 52
Interceptions: 29
Rushing Yards: 1,323
Rushing Touchdowns: 17

The Giants could abandon any thought of drafting a quarterback if they decide to make a major play for Arizona Cardinals second-year quarterback Josh Rosen.

Under new head coach Kliff Kingsbury, the Cardinals are expected to take reigning Heisman Trophy winner Kyler Murray with the No. 1 pick of the draft, suddenly making Rosen expendable.

The UCLA product was taken 10th-overall in a quarterback-heavy draft that also featured Baker Mayfield, Sam Darnold, and Josh Allen where his ceiling is considered by many to be higher than any of the passers available in this year's draft.

New York has been rumored to have interest in a possible Rosen deal, which would allow them to focus their first-round picks on finding an elite pass rusher or bringing on another wide receiver like Ole Miss' DK Metcalf to help cushion the blow of losing Beckham.

Expect the Giants' plan to become a bit clearer the closer things get to the draft, but Giants fans will be hoping that Gettleman and team ownership already have their ducks in a row.

After all, a team can rebuild and win simultaneously — at least that's the message Gettleman and Co. are conveying ahead of 2019.

Frazier, d'Arnaud to begin rehab assignments

While the Mets celebrate their 2019 home opener this afternoon against the struggling Washington Nationals, two veterans will embark on their rehabilitation process down in Port St. Lucie, Florida.

Third baseman Todd Frazier and catcher Travis d'Arnaud will take the field with the St. Lucie Mets, the organization's advanced class-A team, for its season opener.

The Mets had not disclosed when either player might return to the MLB roster.

D'Arnaud is finishing off his recovery from Tommy John surgery, which limited his 2018 season to just four games. The oft-injured backstop has yet to play in more than 112 games during a single season through his first six years in the majors.

The 30-year-old believed that he was ready to make the big club for Opening Day, but a difficult rehab process forced the Mets to err on the side of caution and put him on the injured list to start 2019.

Since d'Arnaud's last time on the field, the Mets have basically abandoned any hope of him developing into the organization's starting catcher. He has yet to put it together as a pro, slashing .245/.306/.406 in 397 games with 47 home runs, prompting the Mets to sign a more established veteran this offseason in Wilson Ramos.

Upon his return, d'Arnaud will serve as Ramos' main backup while Tomas Nido will be optioned to triple-A Syracuse.

For Frazier, the injury frustrations continue to pile up for a player who had never been on the injured list during his first seven seasons in the majors. Since joining the Mets last season, he's been on the IL three times.

A strained left oblique suffered in spring training ensured the 33-year-old would be sidelined for the first few weeks of the regular season. It left the starting third-base job to the newly-signed Jed Lowrie, but a left knee sprain forced the Mets to platoon Jeff McNeil and JD Davis at the hot corner.

The two have performed well to start the season to cushion the blow of losing two veterans. McNeil was batting .400 with three RBI entering Wednesday night's game against the Marlins while Davis has recorded a pair of doubles and runs batted in.

Upon Frazier's return, Davis will likely be optioned to triple-A to open a roster spot.
